Description

Fulton K-8 School offers an innovative magnet program. Our theme is digital music production/audio engineering. Our goal is to fascinate and excite students about their potential for creative self-expression through music and technology.

Fulton students are awakened to the vast array of possibilities for constructive, creative action and problem-solving through the use of computers and the latest digital technology. Fulton’s innovative program incorporates music and technology standards with a cross-curricular approach to language arts and mathematics standards.

We encourage students to actively participate in their learning and educational future. We support students to develop a constructive attitude about their own potential, increase self-esteem and confidence. Students present their accomplishments, projects and performances in December and May.

Teachers collaborate to provide high-quality instruction of our rigorous experiential, sequential and cross-curricular curriculum. Student project folders are evaluated throughout the year.

Parents observe their children’s excitement when discussing the digital music lab. We welcome family members to visit the digital lab and join after-school projects to develop their musical skills.

Fulton has served as a beta testing program for the Keys to Achievement Program currently operating at 13 District sites. The East St. Louis Board of Education and superintendent recently visited our school. Extremely impressed with our program, they plan to implement the Fulton magnet model throughout their district.
