Modular classrooms installed at Valencia Park Elementary

SAN DIEGO – A modular classroom building is being installed at Valencia Park Elementary School. The 7,800-square-foot building will house eight new classrooms and will include an elevator and accessible doorways. The building is part of a whole-site renovation that includes restroom repairs, painting, flooring and ceiling repairs, technology upgrades and improvements to provide access to the physically disabled.

The project started in November 2003 and will be completed in November 2004. The general contractor is Soltek, and the architect is Zagrodnik and Associates. The modular building manufacturer is TurnKey. Kurt Supinger is the construction manager, Francisco Campuzano is the project manager, and Clyde Jaeger is the project inspector, all of San Diego City Schools.

The project is funded by Proposition MM, the 1998 bond measure that provides $1.51 billion toward the $4 billion of needed repairs, replacement and expansion at San Diego City Schools.
