

THE OLD GLOBE

Attention Middle and High School Principals!

Introduce your students to top quality professional theatre at
The Old Globe.

The region's premier regional theatre opens its doors this season with free student matinees of two powerful shows.

For Middle and High School audiences:

Ace, a coming-of-age musical that follows a troubled boy on a journey of understanding. Students will relate to the youthful lead characters and will learn important lessons about the achievements of aviation heroes of World Wars I and II.

Free student matinees on February 7 and 14, 2007 at 10:30 a.m.

For High School audiences:

Two Trains Running, by August Wilson. Don't let your students miss this important play by Tony Award and two-time Pulitzer Prize-winner, August Wilson, one of the greatest playwrights in American history. In his ten plays, Wilson explored the African American experience over the course of the twentieth century. In Two Trains Running, Wilson's enduring characters navigate the civil rights movement of the 1960s.

Free student matinees on May 9, 16, and 23, 2007 at 10:30 a.m.

Free Old Globe Teaching Artist Workshops

In addition to the free tickets for your students, The Old Globe Education Department will send a professional Teaching Artist to your school in the days before the show to conduct a standards-based workshop with your students to enhance the theatre experience. These workshops are offered at no charge and are a part of the Old Globe's commitment to the growth and education of theatre professionals, audiences and the community.
