

Pretty, Hot & Popular

A Leadership Program for Middle School Girls

Join the amazing Jess Weiner for a day that will change your life!

Author, advice columnist, TV personality, and the Global Ambassador for the Dove Self Esteem Fund — you've seen Jess on MTV, CNN, The Tyra Banks Show and in Seventeen Magazine with her Body Peace column — now you can see her LIVE in San Diego!

Jess Weiner and friends.

Jess will help us discover and refine the meaning of what it really means to be:

Saturday, July 19
9 a.m. to noon

“Pretty” Being beautiful in heart, mind and spirit.

“Hot” Having the personal style, values and vision it takes to be a leader.

“Popular” Accepting others and being a leader in your everyday life.

Who can attend?

All middle school girls.

How to register:

Send an e-mail to ywl@jennadruck.org with the following details: 1) Name of middle school girl; 2) Grade; 3) School name and address; 4) E-mail and phone number (so that we can contact her with the registration materials); 5) A brief description of how you see this girl as an emerging leader. Once we have your contact information we will send you the registration materials which includes all of the details.

Is there a fee?

Our first ever middle school event is only $10. Scholarships are available by calling Leanne at 619.294.8000.

Where?

Liberty Station's "McMillan Event Center," Point Loma, CA.

What is the “Young Women’s Leadership” (YWL) Program?

YWL started 12 years ago after the tragic loss of an amazing young woman, Jenna Druck. This program is a legacy to her spirit and her dedication to being a leader.

Each year, YWL gives the “Spirit of Leadership” award to a special group of high school girls. As recipients of the award, girls are invited to attend our conference and leadership forums. And now we are extending the invitation to middle school girls!
