Lesley University is currently accepting applications for a new cohort developing in the San Diego City Schools:

Integrated Teaching Through the Arts, M.Ed.

This program provides an exploration of the power of arts integration in education. The program prepares educators to teach the California state standards while using the arts as teaching and learning strategies to meet the needs of students with diverse learning styles. The Integrated Teaching Through the Arts M.Ed. program is an experiential program that recognizes and supports teachers as the primary catalyst for student engagement and success.
