

Hello to all of our Kearny High School DMD supporters!

The School of Digital Media and Design (DMD) @ Kearny is looking for panelists to evaluate our 9th grade and 10th grade level projects and senior client-base exhibitions. If you are available for any of the following dates/times, please let me know. Our students look forward to presenting to community members and truly value this experience. Please pass this on to co-workers, anyone in the Digital Media industry, friends of Kearny Mesa, Linda Vista Community and other organizations that like to give back.

Here is where we need you... Groups will present their final project to a panel of teachers, students, business leaders and community members, who will evaluate the quality of work with a rubric provided. This is a MAJOR part of each student's grade and all students must present.

Below are the dates that we need panelist. Please check your calendars and get the word out to other community supporters!

• Ninth Grade "Masters of Disasters- Project Base Learning" – May 26th & 27th

Ninth grade students have been split into groups focusing on one of five disasters: tornadoes, hurricanes, volcanoes, earthquakes or wildfires (9th grade Earth Science Standards). Each group will research and create a website about their disaster. The target audience of these sites will be sixth graders. We have invited over our neighborhood schools sixth graders to present to on May 22nd to get their input and reaction before their final presentations.

• Tenth Grade "History Bytes- Project Base Learning" – May 28th & 29th

This project is a student-centered spin-off of the "History Bites" skit comedy program created by Rick Green. Students will work in a comprehensive group of 20-30 (depending on the size of their History class). As a group, students will select a time period, or significant event, from 10th grade World History standards (i.e. The Industrial Revolution), as the focus of their program. Students will then be broken into pairs, and will decide on a particular sub-topic of that time period, which will produce 2 one minute vignettes and 30 second commercial (of varying genres) to represent their particular sub-topic of the time period. Once pieced together, the show will simulate a student sitting on their couch and channel surfing on a typical evening after school – as if they lived during the event and T.V. was available. History Bytes provides engaging opportunities for students to synthesize and meaningfully apply content learning from Social Studies and English through the use of multi-media.

• Senior "Client Focused Project" Exhibitions – June 2nd - 4th

The senior exhibition is a graduation requirement that enables students to reflect on their high school experience and set goals for their future. Senior Project is focused on producing an authentic product for a client. The client establishes the need, the audience, the product and expectations of quality. Students propose solutions, research content, and then clients' review products and write evaluations before students' senior exhibition presentations. This valuable experience provides an opportunity for students to receive objective feedback and gain confidence along with a sense of accomplishment. Below are the types of professional packages they have produced:
